

My best advice to AP World students for next year is...

Written by TTHS AP World students from 2016-17.

1. Take notes while reading AMSCO.
2. Mrs. Hensley can not prepare you for every event in history. Prepare yourself for hard work and dedication all the way through till May.
3. Pay attention, take it seriously, and make sure you can write well.
4. Do not complain. Get over it. You're not a freshman anymore
5. When you start focusing mainly on the written assignment, continue to read the written assignment for homework.
6. Do your readings, or you'll be behind
7. Take it seriously when Mrs. Hensley says May 11th will come quick. (May 18 for 2018).
8. Make sure not to slack off on work, get your work done and pay attention.
9. Study study study, learn to study. If she offers review GO TO THEM they will help a lot for you to know what you are focused on. IF she offers make ups DO THEM they will help even if its a 60 make it a 70 it can make all the difference.
10. READ! Know the content but also know the format needed for LEQ, DBQ, and SAQ, to put the content in.
11. If you don't plan on taking time out of your weekends to study for your quiz or Unit tests then don't take AP.
DO NOT PROCRASTINATE!!!!!!! Set a time aside to study
12. Do all the work, not just to pass the class, but to be prepared for the day of the test.
13. Try your hardest and never give up! You might think you don't know it but you got this man. Dont doubt yourself.
14. Study a lot before the daily quizzes and try to get passing grades for each one. Also, although it may seem unnecessary, do try to learn a basic timeline of events because it'll really help.
15. Study hard and do your best in the class. Don't procrastinate ever.

16. Make lists of most important concepts you learned and prioritize World History if you want to pass it.
17. Be prepared to read a lot!
18. Make sure you put in time outside of school to study and start early
19. Do all the work assigned in time, don't put things aside or last minute
20. Read whatever she tells you to read and honestly do the homework
21. Do not procrastinate
22. Pay attention, take notes in class and on readings
23. Don't miss class and read at home when assigned
24. Be prepared to spend time outside of class reading. It wasn't the writing of the essay that was hard, it was the content.
25. Be prepared for major studying and independent work. By all means don't expect for Mrs. Hensley to hold your hand through the whole year until the test, give it your all 100%, be positive about the class and study study study because again, it'll be worth it towards the end.
26. be prepared
27. Don't be afraid to ask questions. The worst thing to do is advance onto other topics without understanding from the beginning.
28. Always study and never give up. If you have any questions ask Mrs. Hensley. don't take the class unless you're willing to do the work.
29. Take down notes and use them to study and review.
30. Don't slack off.
31. Don't procrastinate and do your work when it's assigned.
32. Get enough sleep and make time to dedicate to WHAP and understand it.
33. Don't slack, stay on top of your shit and don't complain about the workload, it gets you nowhere.

If you don't like consistently and diligently working and reading, don't take AP World History. However, if you do, make sure there are no distractions because if so then you'll quickly get behind, and you'll wish you didn't take Ap world.

34. Put your phones up and pay attention!
35. Study, work harder and try harder. It's not as easy as you'd think it is.
36. Study, and pay attention
37. Get ready to do a lot of reading
38. Dont slack off because everything you do matters and if you're a procrastinator this is not the class for you.
39. Read all of the chapters and ask questions.
40. Pay attention to the time periods especially because you can know what you're talking about and still get the question wrong if you're in the wrong time period
41. Read every chapter in the AMSCO book, to not skip homeworks, review every chance you can, don't be lazy, try your best, ask questions when you don't understand something.
42. Study and make time for this class outside of school.
43. Seriously take the time to actually study what you're reading or what your assignment is because you'll be legit lost.
